Description The varied warm-up exercises for concert band were written for the beginning of a rehearsal. [A]-[E] At the beginning simple tone exercises to control the breathing and intonation. [G] The tone is generated only by air and not by tongue. [H]-[I] Small technical exercises which can be played in a variety of articulations and combinations. Director is the conductor. In bars [1]-[78] the most important rhythms of the concert band literature can be found. Single bars or full passages can be used. A major or minor key always forms the basis. The conductor can decide whether to include the drums. There is also the possibility to split up the different exercises on the whole concert band.
